Introduction

Texas' 254 counties contain 5,265 census tracts and, in 2010, boasted an estimated population of over 25 million residents. 267,405 or 1.06% of these were adults held in jails, prisons or detention centers. In 2010, private prisons, while not filled, had the capacity to hold almost 20% of those incarcerated.

Private prisons in Texas are a growth industry, with an incredible rate of almost 25% per year over the last 31 years. This chart demonstrates the number of increased "beds" operated by private prison corporations between 1980, when the first private corporation started operating a prison, and 2011.

This map book contains a page for each of the 43 counties containing private prisons. For each county, four frames show the location of both public and privately-operated prisons. Each frame displays a different economic indicator for each census tract in the county in relation to state-wide census tracts. These indicators include Median Household Income, Median Home Value, the Unemployment Rate and Average Educational Attainment by census tract. The resulting graphic representation provides a vivid picture of the socio-economic conditions in census tracts with prisons versus those without prisons.

The table shows averages of census tracts for three conditions, 1) all census tracts within the state, 2)

		Pop.	Average
Median Household Income	All Tracts	5207	$52,637
	Tracts with Public Prisons	295	$41,154
	Tracts with Private Prisons	56	$37,706
Median Home Value	All Tracts	5120	$133,383
	Tracts with Public Prisons	292	$82,888
	Tracts with Private Prisons	56	$85,857
Unemployment Rate	All Tracts	5152	7.4%
	Tracts with Public Prisons	285	7.2%
	Tracts with Private Prisons	55	9.6%
High School Diploma or more	All Tracts	5217	78.78%
	Tracts with Public Prisons	300	74.08%
	Tracts with Private Prisons	56	68.07%

census tracts with publicly-operated prisons, and 3) census tracts with privately-operated prisons. Census tracts with prisons fall significantly below average in income, home values, employment and educational attainment, excepting only unemployment in census tracts housing publicly-operated prisons. Privately-operated prisons are located in even worse neighborhoods, excepting only home values.
